GENERAL ISSUES ON APPEAL

1. Did the Court err by granting a new trial on the issue of “Breach of implied warranty of habitability” which set aside the jury verdict on this isolated count in the Plaintiffs’ Third Amended Complaint?
2. Did the District Court err in granting a new trial on the basis of stating that the jury should have been instructed regarding disclaimer of the implied warranty of habitability, and that Plaintiffs were entitled to a new trial on their breach of implied warranty of habitability claim?
3. Attorneys’ fees and costs should be awarded to the Appellant at trial and on appeal.

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

LEGAL EVENTS

Plaintiffs’ filed their first complaint (Vol. 1, pp. 2-9) in this matter on or about January 5, 2009 against Defendants, alleging breach of express warranty, breach of implied warranty, breach of implied covenant of good faith and fair dealing, fraudulent concealment of known defect, fraudulent misrepresentation of known fact and unjust enrichment.

On or about September 11, 2009, Plaintiffs filed their motion to amend complaint (R. Vol. 1, p. 156).

On or about October 9, 2009 Plaintiffs filed their amended complaint (R. Vol. 1, p. 205). The September 2009 amended complaint added Defendant, Marriott Homes, LLC.

Plaintiffs third amended complaint was filed on or about November 4, 2010 (R. Vol.

3, p. 567a). The amended complaint was allowed after the District Court's memorandum decision on a hearing to amend complaint. (R. Vol. III, pp. 560-566)

Defendants filed their pretrial memorandum in support of jury instructions and trial positions on or about December 28, 2010 (R. Vol. 3, pp. 676-683). Nowhere in Defendants' pretrial memorandum was the implied warranty of habitability discussed.

On or about January 4, 2011, Plaintiff filed its objection to Defendants' requested jury instructions (R. Vol. 4, pp. 786-792). Nowhere in Plaintiffs' objection to Defendants' requested jury instructions is any discussion made of nor is a proposed jury instruction made regarding any breach of warranty of habitability.

FACTUAL EVENTS

A jury trial was had in this matter. The relevant testimony on the issue of warranty of habitability is set forth from the trial transcript to show that the trial court committed error in its interpretation and memory of the facts at trial. (The trial court did not have a written transcript and relied upon personal notes and memory.) In particular, the real estate contract submitted by the plaintiff to the defendants, via realtors, contained a paragraph on the habitability issue which will be discussed in this brief. It is clear the trial court could not vividly recall the testimony considered by the jury.

Plaintiff, William Shawn Goodspeed, testified as follows during direct examination:

Q. Did you intend to inhabit this home as your primary residence?

A. Yes.

Q. And did you request a warranty on this property?

A. Yes, we requested a standard one year builder's warranty.

Q. Would you please turn to Exhibit Number 3? Do you recognize this document?

A. Yes. It's the sales – purchase and sales agreement from the transaction.

Q. Okay. Did you write every word in that purchase and sale agreement?

A. No. this is, as I understand, kind of a cookie cutter form used for these type of documents.

(Transcript p. 13, ll. 20-25; p. 14, ll. 1-2)

Plaintiff, W. Goodspeed further testified on direct examination:

Q. Okay and did you sign this purchase and sale agreement?

A. Yes I did.

Q. And then did you give it to your agent to convey to the seller?

A. Yes, I did.

Plaintiff testified as to the status of occupancy of the home as of the time of trial:

Q. So you're living in the home in Jefferson County, Idaho, at this time?

A. Yes, it's my primary residence. I work out of town.

Q. Does your wife live in this home at the current time?

A. Yes, she does. (Tr., p. 53, ll. 2025; P. 54, l. 1)(emphasis added).

Plaintiff offered further evidence that he and his family continued to reside in the home in question as of the time of trial:

Q. Is your son currently residing in the home in Jefferson County?

A. Yes, he is.

Q. So he's habitating in that home or living in that home; correct?

A. Yes.

Q. And your family is living in that home; correct?

A. That's our primary residence, yes.

(Tr., p. 54, ll. 13-21) (emphasis added).

Plaintiff, William Goodspeed testified that he had hired a realtor to represent his interests, and testified regarding his reading and signing of the Purchase and Sale Agreement:

Q. You hired a realtor out here. What was his name?

A. Randy Stoor.

Q. Randy S-t-o-o-r; is that correct?

A. That sounds correct. It could be a misspelling of his last name, but I'm not – Randy Stoor. It could be S-t-o-o-r.

Q. And he worked for Coldwell Banker; is that correct?

A. Yes.

Q. You entered into a contract that he wrote; is that correct?

A. Yes.

Q. That was Exhibit 3, I believe; is that right?

A. Yes.

(Tr., p. 55, ll. 15-25; p. 56., ll. 1-4)(emphasis added).

Plaintiff, William Goodspeed offered further testimony that the Purchase and Sale Agreement was prepared by his realtor:

Q. By Mr. Dunn: Mr. Goodspeed, the listing agency was Windstar Realty; is that correct?

A. Yes.

Q. And your agent was Randy Stoor, the selling agent; correct?

A. Yes. Well –

Q. And he prepared this purchase and sale agreement; would you not agree?

A. He – yes.

Q. He had it typed at his office and prepared and that was submitted to the listing agent, Dave Chapple; is that correct?

A. Yes.

(Tr., p. 56., ll. 21-25; p. 57., ll. 1-8).

Plaintiff, William Goodspeed offered testimony that he and his wife, in addition to signing the Purchase and Sale Agreement, initialed each page of the Agreement:

Q. Would that be a fair assessment of page one of Exhibit 3? Is that your initials down there?

A. Yes, they are.

Q. And whose initials appears there, yours and your wife's? WG and SG?

A. Yes.

(Tr., p. 57. ll. 24-25; p. 58, ll. 1-4).

Plaintiff William Goodspeed testified that realtor he hired explained the Purchase and Sale Agreement to him:

Q. Was this Exhibit 3 [Purchase and Sale Agreement] explained to you by your realtor who you hired?

A. Yes. (Tr., p. 58, ll. 8-10). (emphasis added).

Q. And did you agree with all the terms of page one?

A. Yes.

Q. Was this Exhibit 3 explained to you by your realtor who you hired?

A. Yes.

Q. On page two, we'll go through it a little bit here, is, basically, going through once again dates and times, but your listing broker, once again he puts his name up at the top, Randy Stoor; correct?

A. Correct.

Q. And then at the bottom what I'm trying to point out a little bit is the date of 06/17. Can you see that right there?

A. Yes.

Q. That's when you signed it, so it was June 17, of '07 you made this offer to Mr. and Mrs. Shippen; correct?

A. Correct.

Q. Now page three, I think, is really important.

THE COURT. Before you go on, I'm not sure if it's critical or not, but I'm questioning from what I have whether that's correct. It looks like page two has his signature and his wife's signature as the buyers on 06/16, and the sellers on 06/17.

MR. DUNN. That's correct, your Honor. Let me go back to that, because I don't want to deceive anyone.

Q. by Mr. Dunn: Let me get down to the bottom. There's the Goodspeeds 06/16. I'm sorry Mr. Goodspeed. I got a little ahead of myself 06/16 of '07. And then the Shippens on, at least it's R.S. I assume that stands for Robert Shippen right there on 06/17; is that your understanding?

A. Yes.

Q. So June 16th and 17th was the document come into being; is that correct?

A. Yes.

Q. No on page three is where your realtor makes some – it has a place for him on this document to make some representations. That would be under paragraph four, Other Terms and Conditions, right?

A. Yes.

(Transcript p. 55, ll. 15-25; pp. 56-59)

Q. Now we get to the key of this whole case that the jury is concerned – is going to be concerned with. Builder to complete and – to complete a drainage/leach system. That was part of your terminology; correct? To complete a drainage/leach system around home. Then it has in parenthesis, walkout basement area. That was added by your realtor; correct?

A. It was added because it was listed in the MLS listing.

Q. But it was added by your realtor; correct? A. After review of the MLS listing.

Q. It was added by your realtor; correct?

A. Correct.

Q. And it was added by you; correct?

A. Correct.

Q. And then it talks about mirrors, main bathroom, TVs, other things. You're not claiming any problem except, the drainage/leach system around home (walkout basement area); correct?

A. I'm confused. Can your repeat the question?

Q. Sure. The basis of your lawsuit is the builder to complete a drainage/leach system around home walkout basement area; correct?

A. No, the basis for my lawsuit is the known fact that this house had been flooded before I bought it was not disclosed to me.

Q. Okay. Then this particular item right here, and we'll get to what you want to tell the jury. I understand you want to tell the jury things, but listen to my prior question. Are you claiming that the builder did not complete a drainage/leach system around the home (walkout basement area)? Are you claiming that did not occur?

A. No.

Q. Your saying that it did occur? It was there?

A. Yes.

Q. And you actually saw it being installed; didn't you?

A. Yes.

Q. And you actually talked to Bob Shippen when it was being installed.

A. Yes.

Q. And you saw him and his other workers installing that through their efforts; correct?

A. Yes.

Q. And you saw that it had wiring that came from the house; correct?

A. Yes.

Q. And maybe,-- I'm just asking this question -- maybe you saw that the pump system did drain out through various pipes. Did you see that?

A. Yes.

Q. And do you recall Mr. Shippen telling you that there had been a water problem in the home previously when you viewed this leaching system?

(Transcript p. 63 ll. 16-25; pp. 64, 65)

MR. DUNN: I'm going through the contract to determine what he could or could not do.

THE COURT: Over -- MR. DAVIS: We-re not alleging that there's --

THE COURT: The objection is sustained. Has to have more relevance than simply being in the document.

Q. by Mr. Dunn: You understood the document; correct?

A. Yes.

Q. Well let me go back to that page right at the bottom. It says: You are advised, you are advised to consult with any general contractor subject to Idaho Code 5-25. Did you do that?

A. Can you ask the question again?

Q. It says, you are advised to consult with any general contractor subject to Idaho Code Section 5-525. Did you consult with a general contractor?

MR. DAVIS: Objection, again, Your Honor, as to relevance. This section is talking about mechanics liens and the like. I believe that's a disclosure statement as to whether or not there are liens on the property. I don't believe that's relevant to this case.

MR. DUNN: It says regarding the general contractor disclosure statement.

MR. DAVIS: Right. Your Honor, I withdraw my objection. I didn't see that language --

Q. So did you consult with a general contractor prior to purchasing this property?

A. No. (Transcript p. 70)

Plaintiff William Goodspeed offered substantial testimony regarding Paragraph 32 [disclaimer of warranties] of the Purchase and Sale Agreement:

Q. Now just to make certain everybody understands, you had your own private broker who worked for you, and he was agent for you. That was Randy Stoor; correct?

A. Yes.

Q. And that's disclosed, so there's no misunderstanding that you didn't have your own private real estate agent to advise you and walk through this document with you; correct?

A. Correct.

Q. And it also indicates that the sellers had their own independent real estate agent, Dave Chapple; correct? Doesn't say that. I'm adding a little bit. Dave Chapple was their real estate agent; correct?

A. Yes.

Q. So both of you had real estate agents; is that correct?

A. Yes.

Q. Now this is really significant, so I want you to really pay attention to what I ask you. Paragraph 32 it says as follows: Entire agreement. This agreement contains the entire agreement of the parties respecting the matters herein set forth and supersedes. What does the word supersede mean to you?

MR. DAVIS: Objection. Calls for legal conclusion.

MR. DUNN: I'm just asking what the word supersedes means to him.

THE COURT: Overruled. You may answer.

THE WITNESS: Goes before.

Q. By Mr. Dunn: Supersedes means it overrules everything else; correct?

A. No.

Q. This isn't subsequent to. It supersedes it, overrules everything; right?

A. No. It means that it is – comes after and includes.

Q. Okay. So we'll have to have the Court define what the word supersedes means then. And it says supersedes all prior agreements between the parties respecting such matters. This agreement supersedes all prior agreements between the parties; correct?

A. That's what it says, yes.

Q. And you signed this document.

A. Yes.

Q. Now this goes on to state: No warranties without – including, without limitation, any warranty of habitability, agreements or representations not expressly set forth herein shall be binding upon either party. That's what it says; isn't it?

A. That's what it says. ****

Q. And you signed this document?

A. Yes. I don't think the intent of this document is to say that I –

MR. DUNN: Objection, non-responsive. I only –

THE COURT: You're both speaking at once. You have to just answer the question. Your attorney can ask additional questions if he wants, but you need to answer Mr. Dunn's question and not become argumentative.

THE WITNESS: Repeat the question?

THE COURT: Yeah. Mr. Dunn, would you ask the question again?

Q. By Mr. Dunn: So this document says no warranties including without limitation any warranty of habitability, agreements or representations not expressly set forth herein shall be binding upon either party. It says that; doesn't it?

A. Yes. That's what it says.

Q. And you signed it; correct?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. And your wife signed it; correct?

A. Yes.

Q. 06/16/07. Is that your signature?

A. I responded yes.

Q. At 1:45 p.m.?

MR. DAVIS: Objection. Asked and answered.

MR. DUNN: That hasn't been asked.

THE COURT: Overruled.

Q. by Mr. Dunn: And that's your wife's signature, Shellie Goodspeed; correct?

A. Yes.

Q. 06/16/ 1:45 p.m.; correct?

A. Correct.

Q. Did you consider this a contract?

A. Yes. (Tr., p 72, l. 25 - p. 76, ll. 11-12)

Plaintiff, William Goodspeed testified regarding the one-year builder's warranty:

Q. And it [Warranty Deed] was recorded in Jefferson County, Idaho; correct?

A. Yes.

Q. And that date was July 7th, of '07 when it was recorded; correct?

A. Yes.

Q. You would agree with me, wouldn't you, that from July 7th of 2007, until July 7th of 2008, you had a one-year warranty per your contract and sale agreement; correct?

A. Yes.

Q. And after that date, you did not have a contractual agreement with Mr.

Shippen, with Marriott Homes, with Shippen construction with any entity after that point in time; correct?

A. No. My opinion is that –

Q. Just contractual that's all I'm saying. You didn't have a contract that extended past one year.

Mr. Dunn: So it was one year, correct?

A. Yes.

(Tr., p. 80., l. 25 – p. 81. ll. 1-25; p. 82., ll. 5-6.)

The District Court ruled that the jury had enough evidence before it to rule on the issue of the warranty of habitability:

Q. Do you believe it ended July 7th of 2008, as to the contract?

A. I think the warranty of habitability would extend past that one year.

Q. That's not my question. My question is did it end on July 1, 2008, as far as the builder's warranty, per the contract.

A. Yes.

Q. Now do you we need to go back to Exhibit 3 that said there was no warranty of habitability?

A. If you feel like that's necessary.

THE COURT: I don't. Let's move along. (Emphasis supplied).

Q. By Mr. Dunn: But you—

THE COURT: You've read that three or four times. The jury will have it, so let's move along.

(Transcript p. 82, ll. 7-21). (Emphasis supplied).

Plaintiff, William Goodspeed testified as to the time-frame and the nature of the “water issues” at the home during the one-year builder's warranty period:

Q. Now you indicated that there was flooding in 2007, 2008, and 2009, correct?

A. Yes.

Q. Now in 2007, you indicated that there was no flooding inside the home, but the water level was high outside your yard, correct?

A. In the yard, yes.

Q. Never got in the house in 2007, correct?

A. That's correct.

Q. 2008, you said that you had some flooding in the home in September of 2008, correct?

A. That's correct.

Q. And that's past the one year we talked about; correct?

A. Correct.

(Tr., pp. 82, ll. 23-25; - p. 83. ll. 1-12).

At trial, Randy Stoor, realtor for the plaintiffs, testified as follows:

Q. by Mr. Davis: Mr. Stoor, would you please state your name for the record?

A. Randy Stoor.

Q. And what is your address?

A. I live in Idaho Falls; work at Coldwell Banker Eagle Rock at 57 3rd Street.

Q. How long have you been a realtor – I'm sorry. You were the realtor for the Goodspeeds on this property.

A. That's correct.

Q. How long have you been a realtor?

A. I've been licensed since 1976.

(Transcript p. 109, ll. 12-23)

Q. Now if you would turn to Exhibit 3, Plaintiffs' Exhibit 3. Do you recognize this document?

A. Yeah, that's a standard purchase and sale agreement we use. This is the offer we made on the property.

Q. I'm sorry. You said that was a standard. Is this a form that's filled out? A. It's a form that's printed by the state association or provided, and we fill in the blanks.

Q. Okay, so kind of a boilerplate type of agreement?

A. Right.

(Transcript p. 118, ll. 1-10)

Stoor further testified:

Q. And now this form that you used, it was prepared by somebody from the realtors association, I take it?

A. Attorneys hired by the realtor association in Boise.

Q. And you're probably after this, what, 30 years you are pretty much familiar with this form.

A. Yes.

(Transcript p. 125, ll. 18-25)

Q. And the language that's contained in this form.

A. Yes.

Q. As a part of your commission and your job as a realtor, do you go over this purchase and sale agreement with your client?

A. Yes.

Q. And you try to explain all of the details of the contract?

A. Yes.

Q. Could I get you to go to paragraph 32.?

A. Okay.

Q. 32, you there?

A. Yes.

Q. Could you silently read that to yourself, and then I want to ask you a few questions.

A. Okay.

Q. Fairly standard language?

A. Yes.

Q. It's not hard for you to understand as a realtor; is it?

A. No.

Q. And you think you understand it?

A. I think so.

Q. What does it mean when it says this agreement contains the entire agreement of the parties respecting the matter set forth and supersedes all prior agreements? What does that mean?

A. If there had been some oral or written agreements prior to this, this agreement signed by the parties would supersede or replace it.

Q. And what does supersede mean for us?

A. Basically, it would replace original or prior agreements.

Q. Kind of trumps them, so to speak?

A. Exactly.

Q. And it's the final expression of negotiations and people's intent; correct?

A. Right.

Q. This goes on to state, no more warranties, including without limitation, any warranty of habitability, agreements or representations not expressly set forth herein shall be binding on either party; correct?

A. Yes.

Q. What does that mean?

A. Basically, I guess it would say that the – if there were any warranties to be included in the property or questions about habitability, unless they were expressed in the document or possibly some subsequent documents, it wouldn't be enforceable. This, basically, is replacing any prior.

Q. So if you had some particular concerns or warranties that you wanted in here, you would probably add an addendum or put it in paragraph 4; correct?

A. Right.

Q. To your knowledge, are there any addendums to this agreement about warranties?

A. No.

Q. Are there any addendums in this agreement about habitability?

A. No.

Q. There were two addendums, basically, that if I could get you to turn the next page, basically, extended time. That's kind of usual; isn't it?

A. That happens when we can't get the sellers' signature and the contract would have expired unless there is an agreement that we've extended that time period.

Q. Because the agreement expires on a certain date; correct?

A. Right.

Q. So this just extended it; right?

A. Right.

Q. Pretty normal in your industry?

A. It happens all the time.

Q. Then on that same addendum goes on the next page you, basically, corrected the physical address; correct?

A. Right.

Q. Sot that everybody knew which piece of property they were talking about?

A. That's correct.

Q. do you find this document to be a – signed by the parties a binding agreement between buyer and seller?

A. Yes.

Q. And, obviously, as a realtor, you want a binding agreement?

A. Certainly, as do the seller and the buyer.

Q. And it's your job and your profession?

A. Correct

Q. Was the MLS attached as an addendum to this agreement.

A. No.

MR DUNN: That's all I have.

(Transcript p 125, ll. 18-25; p 126-129)

The respondents may have altered the leaching system which would make such system ineffective. The following testimony is persuasive:

Questions to Mr. Shippen:

Q. Now in 2008, was there ever a mention of a wet spot in the middle of his lawn?

A. He mentioned to me, and I'm not sure of the time, but he said his lawn was bubbling up. And he said it just happened since the sub-water had come up. And I couldn't, for the life of me, figure out what he was talking about. And so I thought about that that night, trying to figure out what would cause that, and I realized what I thought it was and was going to tell him the next time I saw him. The next time I saw him was when he told me he was going to sue me, and I never did tell him what I thought it was.

Q. And what did you think it was?

A. Where that bubble was a direct line from the pump to where I dug the trench that I put in the two dump trucks loads of washed gravel. It's probably about – that line was probably 110, 120 feet long. And I assumed he must have cut that when he was putting his line in for his sprinkler system. He cut that line, and so that water never was making it to where it was supposed to, but it was bubbling up right there.

Q. Why was it important that the water make it to the washed gravel?

A. It would have made it a lot more effective and could have handled – the size of the gravel I put in there should been able to handle a lot of water.

ARGUMENT

1. SUMMARY

The facts are straight-forward. The plaintiffs resided in the house that is the subject in the real estate contract from the time of purchase; and, continued to reside therein even through trial.

The builder's warranty was for one (1) year. No problems occurred in the one (1) year period.

Builder was to put in a leaching system. The buyer was present when the system was placed around the home. The leaching system had no problems during the one (1) year period. Thereafter, the plaintiff altered and/or failed to maintain and service the leaching system. (Tr. pp. 278, ll. 1-25; 279, ll. 1-2.).

The contract was prepared by the plaintiffs. Both the plaintiffs and the defendants had professional realtors representing their various interests. The plaintiffs' realtor worked for over 30 years as a realtor; understood the contract, EXPLAINED the contract to plaintiffs; and, the plaintiffs acknowledged understanding of the contract. The plaintiffs signed the contract offer and presented it to sellers. The sellers accepted the document prepared, explained and signed by the plaintiffs.

The jury heard all of this testimony and reviewed the real estate contract (Plaintiff Exhibit 3)¹. The jury found in the defendants' favor. The sitting judge did not accurately recall the testimony and apply the proper law to that testimony.

The defendants prevailed on all counts at jury trial.

2. INTRODUCTION

Respondents, in their Memorandum in Support of Motion for Judgment Notwithstanding the Verdict and Motion for Reconsideration, claimed that the "error occurred by not instructing the jury of the language regarding a disclaimer of warranties." (R., Vol. 4, p.864.) Respondent's claimed that the District Court erred in failing to give the jury the following instruction:

Disclaiming a warranty requires a conspicuous provision (text in large, bold or capital letters) which is clear and unambiguous, fully disclosing the consequences of its inclusion. This places a heavy burden on the builder to show the buyer has relinquished the protection afforded to the buyer by public policy and that the buyer has done so knowingly. By this approach, boiler plate clauses (ready made or form language), however worded, are rendered ineffective thereby affording the consumer the desired protection without denying enforcement of what is in fact the intention of both parties. A knowing waiver of this protection will not be readily implied and should be obtained with difficulty. (R., Vol. 4, p. 864).

The District Court granted a new trial on the basis that "[T]he jury should have been instructed regarding disclaimer of the implied warranty of habitability," and ruled that ¹ Plaintiffs' Exhibit 3 is attached to this brief for ease since it is referred to frequently. It is also contained in the exhibits, sent by the clerk, in the record.

“This Court cannot rule out the possibility that the proposed jury instruction may have provided needed guidance to the jury regarding the existence and/or waiver of the implied warranty of habitability. Failure to give the instruction may have been prejudicial to the [Respondents] Goodspeeds.” (R., Vol 4, p. 935.)

Additionally, the District Court, in its Memorandum Decision Re: Motions for Judgment Notwithstanding the Verdict, New Trial, and Reconsideration, gave its reasoning for not giving the proposed jury instruction: “This Court declined to give the proposed jury instruction on warranty disclaimers because the Court was lead to believe [Respondents] Goodspeeds had waived the implied warranty of habitability.” (R., Vol. IV, p. 932.)

Further, the District Court, in its Memorandum for Judgment discussed herein, made findings regarding the waiver issue. (See R., Vol. 4, pp. 932-934).

For the reasons discussed infra, Appellants respectfully submit that the court erred in its granting new trial on the issue of the warranty of habitability because of the following: (1) The court based its “error” in not giving the “habitability” jury instruction based on alleged information not contained in the court record; (2) Respondent’s jury instruction, even if given, does not correctly reflect the state of current law, and (3) The District Court, in its discussion of the issue of waiver and discussion of case law, (a) misapplied the rule found in Tusch Enterprises v. Coffin, 113 Idaho 37, 740 P.2d 1022 (Idaho 1987), and (b) erred in its definition of “conspicuous.”

Most important, Appellants respectfully submit, as discussed infra, that the District Court erred in its superceding the jury’s verdict, given the nature of the evidence presented at trial. The factual testimony clearly showed the respondents/plaintiffs understood the contract and waived the habitability issue. Thus, the appellants set forth the comprehensive introduction in this brief on the facts of the trial from the trial transcript.

Appellants submit that the court erred, by a manifest abuse of discretion standard, by granting a new trial to Plaintiff's on the Implied Warranty of Habitability issue. That issue contained almost the identical testimony and evidence and the other counts in the complaint, to-wit: Implied and Express Warranties. Thus, the jury had the same and/or similar evidence for each of the counts it considered. The jury ruled for the defendants on all counts.

3. THE LEGAL STANDARD REGARDING THE RULING FOR A NEW TRIAL IS ABUSE OF DISCRETION

This Court outlines standard of review when determining whether the court below abused its discretion when ordering a new trial in Jones v. Panhandle Distributors, Inc., 117 Idaho 750, 792 P. 2d 315 (Idaho 1990): “[W]e will not reverse a trial court’ order granting or denying a motion for new trial ‘unless the court has manifestly abused the wide discretion vested in it.” Jones, 117 Idaho 750, 755 (citing Quick v. Crane, 111 Idaho 759, 727 P. 2d 1187 (1986).

4. THE DISTRICT COURT MANIFESTLY ABUSED ITS DISCRETION BY GRANTING A NEW TRIAL ON PLAINTIFFS IMPLIED WARRANTY OF HABITABILITY CLAIM

A. The District Court, in error, relied on “facts” not in the record as part of its basis for a new trial.

The District Court in the instant case erred in granting Plaintiffs a new trial on their implied warranty of habitability claim, in part, because the Court did so on the basis of “facts” not in the record.

The trial Court, in its Memorandum Decision Re: Motions for Summary Judgment Notwithstanding the Verdict, New Trial and Reconsideration, stated the following:

This Court declined to give the proposed jury instruction on warranty disclaimers because the Court was led to believe Goodspeeds had waived the implied warranty of habitability. During the jury instruction conference, Shippens’ counsel erroneously represented to this court that Goodspeeds acknowledged having read and understood paragraph 32 prior to signing the agreement. Adding to this Court’s misunderstanding was Goodspeeds’ counsel’s failure to adequately rebut the alleged acknowledgement” (R., Vol. 4, p. 932).

Clearly the jury instruction conference was held in chambers subsequent to the conclusion of jury trial, and the District Court made several erroneous assumptions, as outlined in its memorandum decision quoted herein, in order to not give the jury instruction. Appellants/Defendants respectfully assert that the Court appears to have 1) made conclusions more appropriately given to the jury and 2) based its finding that it should have given a proposed jury instruction based on purported conversation in chambers, not part of the record. For these reasons, it was an abuse of discretion for the Court to grant a new trial on the basis of the Court’s failure to give a proposed jury instruction.

B. The court abused its discretion by its reliance on Respondent’s inaccurate jury instruction.

Appellants respectfully assert that the Court acted properly, at trial, by declining to give Respondent's proposed jury instruction; and the District Court erred in its finding that the proposed instruction was (1) appropriate, and (2) should have been given by the Court.

In its Memorandum Decision Re: Motions for Judgment Notwithstanding the Verdict, New Trial and Reconsideration, the District Court recited a proposed jury instruction regarding warranty of habitability proffered by Plaintiff, and declined by the Court at trial. Respondent's proposed jury instruction, as outlined in the Court's memorandum decision, read as follows:

Disclaiming a warranty requires a conspicuous provision (text in large, bold or capital letters) which is clear and unambiguous, fully disclosing the consequences of its inclusion. This places a heavy burden on the builder to show the buyer has relinquished the protection afforded to the buyer by public policy and that the buyer has done so knowingly. By this approach, boiler plate clauses (ready made or form language), however worded, are rendered ineffective thereby affording the consumer the desired protection without denying enforcement of what is in fact the intention of both parties. A knowing waiver of this protection will not readily implied and should be obtained with difficulty" (R., Vol. 4, p. 931).

For the reasons discussed herein, Defendants assert that the Court's refusal to give said instruction was appropriate at the time of trial, and it is an abuse of discretion for the Court to grant a new trial on the basis of its failure to give this jury instruction.

For the reasons explained infra, this jury instruction (and, in fact, any jury instruction) was and is inappropriate to give to the jury in this case.

5. IT WAS ERROR FOR THE DISTRICT COURT TO GRANT A NEW TRIAL ON THE BASIS OF THE "WAIVER" ISSUE

A. The District Court Committed Error its is Application of Tusch in its

Analysis of the Proposed Jury Instruction and its Discussion of the “Waiver” Issue.

The District Court, in its Memorandum, engaged in a discussion and analysis of the waiver issue. The Court relied on Tusch Enterprises v. Coffin, 113, Idaho 37, 740 P.2d 1022 (1987) in its discussion of the issue of disclaimer of warranties. (R., Vol. 4, pp. 932-934).

The Court’s reliance on Tusch is misplaced, for the following reasons: (1) the facts in Tusch are distinguished from the instant case, (2) the court erred in its discussion of “boilerplate” language, and (3) the court erred regarding its definition of “conspicuous,” as applied to the present matter.

6. NATURE OF THE TUSCH CASE

The Tusch case involved a lawsuit surrounding the sale of duplexes constructed in Pocatello, Idaho. The duplexes were constructed on a mountainside and the summary judgment was granted to defendants on plaintiffs’ claim that “fill was used to shore up the mountainside foundation of the construction site. The district court below granted summary judgment to defendants, the Supreme Court reversed as to, important for the instant matter to plaintiffs, the implied warranty of habitability.

A. The Wording of the Disclaimer in the Instant Case Was not “Boilerplate,” and Was Adequate for the Jury to Find that the Warranty of Habitability had been disclaimed.

The District Court, in part, found that a new trial should have been granted on the warranty issue because “it [the disclaimer of warranties] appears among other boilerplate at the end of the Agreement.” (R. Vol., 4, p. 933).

Tusch instructs that disclaimer of implied warranties is appropriate and allowed:

“The majority of states permit a disclaimer of an implied warranty of habitability, but the disclaimer must be clear and unambiguous and such disclaimers are strictly construed against the builder-vendor.” Tusch, 113 Idaho 37, 45-46. (internal cites omitted). (The named defendants are not the builder of the house in question.)

Further, Tusch defines “conspicuous”: “[O]ne seeking the benefit of such a disclaimer must not only show a conspicuous provision which fully discloses the consequences of its inclusion.” Id. (internal citations omitted).

Further, Tusch defines “boilerplate”: “[W]hen... a contract contains only general language stating there are no warranties other than those contained within its four corners, any purported waiver of the implied warranty is ineffective.” Id., at 46 (internal citations omitted).

The facts of Tusch are distinguished from the case at bar, in that the implied warranty in Tusch was not contained in the contract and, thus, was not disclaimed. The Tusch Court reasoned: “The disclaimers in the instant case fall woefully short of fulfilling these requirements. Because the implied warranty of habitability is a creature of public policy, public policy dictates that it be waived only with difficulty. The party asserting that it has been waived bears the burden of proving that it has been knowingly waived. Clearly, when no mention is made of the implied warranty of habitability in a contract, and the contract contains only general language stating that there are no warranties other than those contained within its four corners, any purported waiver of the implied warranty of habitability is ineffective. Tusch, at 46 (internal citation omitted) (emphasis added).

As stated herein, in Tusch, the contract did not have language regarding disclaimer of the implied warranty of habitability. By contrast, in the instant case, the Purchase and Sale Agreement, Paragraph 32, reads as follows:

“32. ENTIRE AGREEMENT: This Agreement contains the entire Agreement of the parties respecting the matters set forth and supersedes all prior Agreements between the parties respecting said such matters. No warranties, including, without limitation, any warranty of habitability, agreements or representations not expressly set forth herein shall be binding upon either party.” [Plaintiffs’ Exhibit 3, page 7].

In summary, the disclaimer in the instant case was not “boilerplate,” as defined in Tusch, and was conspicuous in its plain language. As discussed infra, the jury had sufficient evidence for it to properly conclude that the warranty of habitability was disclaimed.

B. The District Court Engaged in Manifest Error in its Requirement that a Disclaimer of Implied Warranty be in Bold Face Type, Large Text, or Capital Letters.

As discussed herein, Tusch holds that a disclaimer provision be in fact “conspicuous” when it “fully discloses consequences of its inclusion.” Id. In the instant case, the plain language of paragraph 32 of the Purchase and Sale Agreement reads that the parties, in executing the Agreement, made no warranties binding upon the other, including but not limited to the warranty of habitability.

The boldfaced language applies to the UCC transactions. The lower court did not use the Tusch standard but jumped to the UCC standard for goods. The lower court notes such jump in a footnote not clearly presented in the body of the decision. Additionally, does this rule mean that all language of a contract that rises to an artificial standard of “importance” be in bold face? Should a party drafting a contract have the entire contract in bold face to stress its importance and, thus, the entire contract would lose the conspicuous language? Is a drafter of contracts now supposed to make an independent determination of what rises to the level of “conspicuous”? The task of the attorney would become a tremendous risk to determine each clause and sentence and whether it should be in bold type, different color or rise to the level discussed in the UCC statutes. Tusch is definitive that the conspicuous language calls it to the attention of the party waiving the warranty. The facts in the transcript clearly show that the plaintiffs/respondents completely understood the contract and, in particular, paragraph 32. Thus, it was called to respondents’ attention and, the real estate contract was submitted to sellers by respondents.

The District Court, was misplaced in its definition of “conspicuous,” requiring that it must consist of “text in large, bold or capital letters.” (R., Vol. 4, p.933). The Court defines “conspicuous” not pursuant to Tusch, but rather in the context of sale of goods: “This Court acknowledges the Agreement in this case does not concern the sale of goods. Nevertheless, the definition of ‘conspicuous’ from the Idaho Commercial Code is relevant and informative on the issue before the Court. (R. Vol. 4, p. 933, footnote 3).

The Court does not expand on its statement that a term defined for sale of goods is relevant to the purchase of real property. Notwithstanding, the court uses its “goods” definition of “conspicuous” as a reason to grant a new trial:

Conspicuous,” with a reference to a term, means so written, displayed, or presented that a reasonable person against which it is to operate ought to have noticed it. ... (A) A heading in capitals equal to or greater in size than the surrounding text, or in contrasting type, font, or color to the surrounding text of the same or lesser size; and (B) Language in the body of a record or display in larger type than the surrounding text, of in contrasting type, font, or color to the surrounding text of the same size, (sic). (R., Vol. 4 p. 933).

The Court, in granting a new trial on the issue of “large, bold or capital letters”, using terms from the uniform commercial code for the sale of goods is clearly not applicable to a standard real estate purchase and sale agreement. There was extensive testimony from the real estate agent, Randy Stoor, that the real estate agreement was one that was commonly used. Further, the disclaimer of warranty language was clear from the four corners of the document, and there was extensive testimony given by several parties that the plaintiffs reviewed, read and understood said agreement, and signed the agreement.

7. IT WAS MANIFEST ERROR FOR THE DISTRICT COURT TO OVERTURN THE JURY’S VERDICT

Appellants respectfully submit that it was error for the District Court, in this case, to substitute its opinion for that of the jury. Idaho case law is settled on the standard the court must apply in its decision to grant a new trial:

"In reviewing a decision to grant or deny a motion for directed verdict or a judgment notwithstanding the verdict, this Court applies the same standard as that applied by the trial court when originally ruling on the motion." Waterman v. Nationwide Mut. Ins. Co., 146 Idaho 667, 672, 201 P.3d 640, 645 (2009). "[W]e determine whether there was sufficient evidence to justify submitting the claim to the jury, viewing as true all adverse evidence and drawing every legitimate inference in favor of the party opposing the motion for a directed verdict." Todd v. Sullivan Constr. LLC, 146 Idaho 118, 124, 191

P.3d 196, 202 (2008). This Court "must simply determine whether there is substantial evidence to support the jury's verdict. Substantial evidence is such relevant evidence as a reasonable mind might accept as adequate to support a conclusion." Howell v. Eastern Idaho R.R., Inc., 135 Idaho 733, 737, 24 P.3d 50, 54 (2001) (citation omitted).

A trial judge may grant a new trial on the ground that the evidence was insufficient to justify the verdict if: (a) "after making his or her own assessment of the credibility of the witnesses and weighing the evidence, the judge determines that the verdict is not in accord with the clear weight of the evidence" and (b) the judge "conclude[s] that a different result would follow a retrial." Hudelson v. Delta Intl. Mach. Corp., 142 Idaho 244, 248, 127 P.3d 147, 151 (2005) (citation omitted). We review a trial court's decision under an abuse-of-discretion standard. Id.

Weinstein v. Prudential Property and Cas. Ins. Co., 2010 WL 2163391, (Idaho 2010)

----- Excerpt from page 2010 WL 2163391 *11.

The judge may not substitute his/her opinion but rather determine if sufficient facts exist for a jury to render a decision in the fashion it so found. It appears this district court is trying to second-guess the jury. The legal standard is not second-guessing but rather is to determine sufficient facts in the record. The transcript supports the "facts" in the record and contained previously in this brief.

A. The Jury Was Presented Ample Evidence with which to Support its Verdict Regarding the Warranty of Habitability Issue

The District Court had a very detailed special verdict form that asked, in an orderly fashion, various questions of the jury. It is beyond dispute that the jury answered each and every question on the special verdict form favorably to the Defendants. Furthermore, both parties, via their legal counsel, approved the special verdict form and the format of such verdict form. Neither party can argue that the jury was not well instructed as to the law as few objections existed by either party to the legal instructions presented. The jury followed the special verdict form and received proper jury instructions.

A trial court will deny a motion for judgment notwithstanding the verdict if there is evidence of sufficient quantity and probative value that reasonable minds could have reached a similar conclusion to that of the jury. Id. (citing Hudson v. Cobbs, 118 Idaho 474, 478, 797 P.2d 1322, 1326 (1990)). A trial court is not free to [146 Idaho 775] weigh the evidence or pass on the credibility of witnesses, making its own independent findings of fact and comparing them to the jury's findings. Griff, Inc., 138 Idaho at 319, 63 P.3d at 445. A trial court reviews the facts as if the moving party admitted any adverse facts and draws all reasonable inferences in favor of the non-moving party. Ricketts v. E. Idaho Equip. Co., Inc., 137 Idaho 578, 580, 51 P.3d 392, 394 (2002).

Bates v. Seldin, 203 P.3d 702, 146 Idaho 772, (Idaho 2009)
----- Excerpt from pages 203 P.3d 704-203 P.3d 705.

The Plaintiffs, in their motion for a JNOV and/or new trial, fail to recognize the very verdict form and instructions they approved. Instead, the memorandum is simply a re-hash of the Plaintiffs' closing argument. The jury did not accept or agree with the Plaintiffs/Respondents on their evidence or theories.

The parties entered into a very detailed verdict form and spent multiple hours arriving at such a form. It should be noted that both parties, on the record, approved the special verdict form and the orderly process to lead the jury through the various theories and counts of the plaintiff. It is beyond dispute that the jury answered each and every question and went through the form in orderly fashion. (R. pp. 821-822).

Furthermore, the transcript is beyond any reasonable inference that ample testimony existed that: 1) the plaintiffs continuously resided in the home in question, 2) the plaintiffs prepared the real estate offer and contract, 3) the plaintiffs had a professional realtor with over 30 years of experience, 4) that the plaintiffs' realtor explained, in detail, the contract and afterwards obtained initials on each page and final signatures of the plaintiffs.

It is also abundantly clear that the proper leaching system was installed. The plaintiff observed the installation; and, the system did not fail. Furthermore, the builder's warranty was for one (1) year and no problems existed. The transcript also shows that the buyer dug into the ground where the leaching system existed in subsequent years after the one year warranty period. It is believed the plaintiff altered the leaching system. (Tr. pp. 278, ll. 1-25; 279, ll. 1-2.).

Further, the jury conference was not of record; but rather as was the practice of this district court, a general discussion in chambers with counsel to place appropriate conversation, objections and the like on the record as the court went through the proposed jury instructions and those that would not be given. (R. pp. 821-822). To blame both parties' counsel for the court's alleged error is not in keeping with judicial propriety.

Appellants respectfully urge this appellate court to review the record, the contract and the misconceptions of the district court and accept the decision of the sacred province of the jury. To ignore the jury's decision and merely second guess such decision based upon the court's opinion is inappropriate. Clearly, factual evidence exists to support the jury decision. The evidence presented supported defendants' positions on all counts. The court is attempting to isolate one (1) count when the jury consistently ruled in defendants' favor. As such, the jury rendered the correct verdict.

8. THERE IS NO BASIS FOR A NEW TRIAL ON THE IMPLIED

WARRANTY OF HABITABILITY AND NO BASIS TO DISTURB THE JURY'S VERDICT FINDING

A. There Was a Disclaimer of the Implied Warranty of Habitability

As stated previously, the testimony set forth above is clear on the testimony of plaintiffs, Goodspeed, and their agent and realtor, Stoor. Stoor was an experienced realtor of numerous years and meticulously advised the Goodspeeds as to the contract language. Further, Stoor was well versed in the contract and the contract language. It is undisputed that the plaintiffs/respondents were well informed on the contract and understood its contents before submitting the same to the sellers/appellants.

B. Jury found that they did not believe Goodspeeds' argument that "minimum one-year warranty" meant more than one year.

It is clearly stated in the contract that the standard builders warranty was for one year. Further, no problems existed with the leaching system. The only potential problem with the leaching system was the plaintiff/respondent digging into the leaching system and/or proper winterization of the pump and motor. In the opinion of the appellants, the plaintiffs, Goodspeed, did not adequately care for the leaching system. (Tr. pp. 278, ll. 1-25; 279, ll. 1-2.).

C. The Residence was Never Uninhabitable

As stated previously, the Goodspeeds lived in the home from the time of purchase through the date of trial. The home was never non-habitable. The testimony of the hydrologist for the appellants was also placed before the jury. The jury had more than sufficient evidence to rule in favor of the defendants/appellants. Respondents presented no expert evidence on the leaching system, on the hydrology, topography, construction or other matters for the jury.

The defendants presented such testimony.

By contrast to the instant cause, Idaho Case law is instructive on when a breach of the warranty of habitability has occurred. In Bethlahny v. Bectel, 91 Idaho 55, 415 P.2d 698 (Idaho 1966), the Court found that the warranty of habitability had been breached.

Bethlahny involves the case wherein the builder put in open irrigation ditch which ran under the garage. He did not disclose the ditch to the buyers. Subsequently the house leaked, and the subsequent foundation damage, rot and mold forced the buyers to abandon the house.

No such problems were hidden in the instant case. Quite simply, the jury accepted the testimony of the appellants and did not believe the opinions of the respondents. The court granted the plaintiffs/respondents every opportunity to place their case before the jury and was very liberal in allowing the various theories of the plaintiffs to be presented.

9. ATTORNEY FEES AND COSTS AT TRIAL

The trial court reserved the attorney fee issue for the trial until this court could rule. However, the defendants prevailed on all issues at trial. The contract provided for fees and costs to the prevailing party. The court should have awarded fees and costs instead of waiting until this appeal was concluded.

CONTRACT:

Paragraph 27 of the Purchase and Sale Agreement between the parties (Plaintiffs'

Exhibit #3) states:

“If either party initiates or defends any arbitration or legal action or proceeding which are in any way connected with this Agreement, the prevailing party shall be entitled to recover from the non-prevailing party reasonable costs and attorney’s fees, including such costs and fees on appeal.”

The Defendants were the prevailing party, on all issues, and a jury rendered a verdict in favor of the Defendants.

STATUTE

The attorney fee statute relied upon states as follows:

(3) In any civil action to recover on an open account, account stated, note, bill, negotiable instrument, guaranty, or contract relating to the purchase or sale of goods, wares, merchandise, or services and in any commercial transaction unless otherwise provided by law, the prevailing party shall be allowed a reasonable attorney’s fee to be set by the court, to be taxed and collected as costs.

The term "commercial transaction" is defined to mean all transactions except transactions for personal or household purposes. The term "party" is defined to mean any person, partnership, corporation, association, private organization, the state of Idaho or political subdivision thereof.

Commercial transaction has been defined in case law as follows:

The case that is most applicable to the instant case states as follows:

McPhee also claims entitlement to an award of attorney fees incurred on appeal in connection with the breach of contract claim pursuant to > I.C. § 12-120(3). That statute mandates an award of fees to the prevailing party in civil actions that are based on, among other things, a contract for services or a commercial transaction. See Farm Credit Bank of Spokane v. Stevenson, 125 Idaho 270, 274-75, 869 P.2d 1365, 1369-70 (1994); Karterman v. Jameson, 132 Idaho 910, 916, 980 P.2d 574, 580 (Ct.App.1999). When a party has alleged the existence of a contract of the type encompassed in this statute, the prevailing party is entitled to recover fees even though no liability under the alleged contract was established. Farmers Nat'l Bank v. Shirey, 126 Idaho 63, 73, 878 P.2d 762, 772 (1994). Johnson's breach of contract claim here was predicated on an alleged contract for services, which also constituted a commercial transaction. Therefore, MCPhee is entitled to recover his attorney fees incurred on appeal with respect to the contract claim only.

The foregoing case, Johnson, involved a real estate contract and was a commercial transaction.

COMPLAINT OF PLAINTIFFS AND DEFENDANTS' ANSWER

The plaintiffs recognize that an award of fees was to be given to the prevailing party and asked for fees in their complaint. Likewise, the defendants asked for attorney fees in their Answer to the Complaint. It cannot be disputed that fees were sought by both parties. Nor can it be disputed that both parties knew the risk of trial carried the attorney fee and cost award based upon both the underlying contract and upon the statutory scheme in Idaho on commercial transactions.

RULE

The rule for an award of attorney fees is as follows:

(e)(1) Attorney Fees. In any civil action the court may award reasonable attorney fees, which at the discretion of the court may include paralegal fees, to the prevailing party or parties as defined in Rule 54(d)(1)(B), when provided for by any statute or contract.

IRCP Rule 54, Judgments

----- Excerpt from page 167.

The instant case was a commercial transaction. In any event, the contract provides for attorney fees in the case at bar. Under either theory, defendants/appellants are entitled to fees.

Avoiding liability is a significant benefit to a defendant. In baseball, it is said that a walk is as good as a hit. The latter, of course, is more exciting. In litigation, avoiding liability is as good for a defendant as winning a money judgment is for a plaintiff. The point is, while a plaintiff with a large money judgment may be more exalted than a defendant who simply walks out of court no worse for the wear, courts must not ignore the value of a successful defense.

Eighteen Mile Ranch, LLC v. Nord Excavating & Paving, Inc., 117 P.3d 130, 141 Idaho 716, (Idaho 2005)

----- Excerpt from page 117 P.3d 133.

10. ATTORNEY FEES AND COSTS ON APPEAL

An award of attorney fees on appeal requires a statutory or contractual basis. A contract exists in the case at bar with an attorney fee provision. Appellants rely upon the contract and upon Idaho Code §§ 12-120; 12-121 and I.A.R., Rules 40 and 41 in their request for fees on appeal.

Fees are awarded on appeal as follows:

Section 12-120(3) of the Idaho Code requires that the court hearing any action arising out of a contract for services award reasonable attorney fees to the prevailing party. This Court has interpreted I.C. § 12-120(3) to mandate the award of attorney fees on appeal as well as at trial. Chemetics, 130 Idaho at 258, 939 P.2d at 577.

. . . also asserts a right to attorney fees and costs on appeal based on I.A.R. 40, I.A.R. 41, I.C. § 12-120 and I.C. § 12-121. As stated above, this Court has held that I.C. § 12-120(3) mandates the award of attorney fees on appeal to the prevailing party. Additionally, costs are properly awarded to the prevailing party on appeal pursuant to I.A.R. 40. Sammis v. Magnetek, Inc., 130 Idaho 342, 353, 941 P.2d 314, 325 (1997).

Hummer v. Evans, 979 P.2d 1188, 132 Idaho 830, (Idaho 1999)

----- Excerpt from page 979 P.2d 1191.

Fees should be awarded to appellant as a prevailing party pursuant to the contract, statutes cited, and Rule 54, I.R.C.P. The lower court erred on the one count that it set for new trial as argued in this brief.

CONCLUSION

The appellants successfully defended all causes of action at trial. The jury ruled in favor of appellants on all issues.

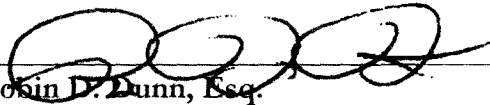

The court abused its discretion in granting a new trial on one isolated count that required the same and similar testimony for the other causes of action alleged by respondents. The court misinterpreted the Tusch case; and, the lower court applied a UCC goods standard to the definition of “conspicuous” not contained in Tusch.

No justifiable reason exists to grant a new trial.

The appellants prevailed at trial and were entitled to fees and costs. Fees and costs should be granted to the appellants on appeal.

A business day shall not include any Saturday or Sunday, nor shall a business day include any legal holiday recognized by the state of Idaho as found in Idaho Code §73-106. The time in which any act required under this agreement is to be performed shall be computed by excluding the date of execution and including the last day. The first day shall be the day after the date of execution, if the last day is a legal holiday, then the time for performance shall be the next subsequent business day.

26. SEVERABILITY: In the case that any one or more of the provisions contained in this Agreement, or any application thereof, shall be invalid, illegal or unenforceable in any respect, the validity, legality or enforceability of the remaining provisions shall not in any way be affected or impaired thereby.

27. ATTORNEY'S FEES: If either party initiates or defends any arbitration or legal action or proceedings which are in any way connected with this Agreement, the prevailing party shall be entitled to recover from the non-prevailing party reasonable costs and attorney's fees, including such costs and fees on appeal.

28. DEFAULT: If BUYER defaults in the performance of this Agreement, SELLER has the option of: (1) accepting the Earnest Money as liquidated damages or (2) pursuing any other lawful right and/or remedy to which SELLER may be entitled. If SELLER elects to proceed under (1), SELLER shall make demand upon the holder of the Earnest Money, upon which demand said holder shall pay from the Earnest Money the costs incurred by SELLER'S Broker on behalf of SELLER and BUYER related to the transaction, including, without limitation, the costs of title insurance, escrow fees, appraisal, credit report fees, inspection fees and attorney's fees; and said holder shall pay any balance of the Earnest Money, one-half to SELLER and one-half to SELLER'S Broker, provided that the amount to be paid to SELLER'S Broker shall not exceed the Broker's agreed to commission. SELLER and BUYER specifically acknowledge and agree that if SELLER elects to accept the Earnest Money as liquidated damages, such shall be SELLER'S sole and exclusive remedy, and such shall not be considered a penalty or forfeiture. If SELLER elects to proceed under (2), the holder of the Earnest Money shall be entitled to pay the costs incurred by SELLER'S Broker on behalf of SELLER and BUYER related to the transaction, including, without limitation, the costs of brokerage fee, title insurance, escrow fees, appraisal, credit report fees, inspection fees and attorney's fees, with any balance of the Earnest Money to be held pending resolution of the matter.

This shall not be considered as a waiver by BUYER of any other lawful right or remedy to which BUYER may be entitled.
